

March 1, 2015 Meeting Notes

Five brave souls attended the meeting. Although it was not snowing before the meeting started, it certainly was by the time we finished (about 2:45). There were several projects on display for show & tell. Go to the club website and you can view the pictures Max took during the meeting. The motorcycles made by Dick W. were more like pieces of art than the toys that they might have been originally designed to be. Terri brought some unique holders for wine bottles, and Bill B. brought one of his toys cars.

We reviewed the Woodworking show event, and concluded that it was not as successful for recruiting new members as we had hoped. Although the attendance was good, we did not see much interest in people joining our club. We are not sure if this was due to the location of our booth, or just the interests of the attendees. However, we decided that we would do it again next year. Perhaps we will be more successful getting people interested in joining our club. If you know of any other events that we might participate in during the year, please bring it up at the next meeting. Murray has been representing us at the carving show, and perhaps we could demonstrate at some other events as well.

We would like to have another club picnic this year. Dick W. will find out more about a park located in the Manchester area. If you have any suggestions for a location for our picnic, please let us know at the next meeting.

So far, these are the only events we have planned for the year. If you have any additional suggestions or thoughts on the topic, please let us know and we can discuss it at the next meeting.

Speaking of which. the next meeting is scheduled for April 12, 2015. Hope to see you there!
